

Ed Woulfe

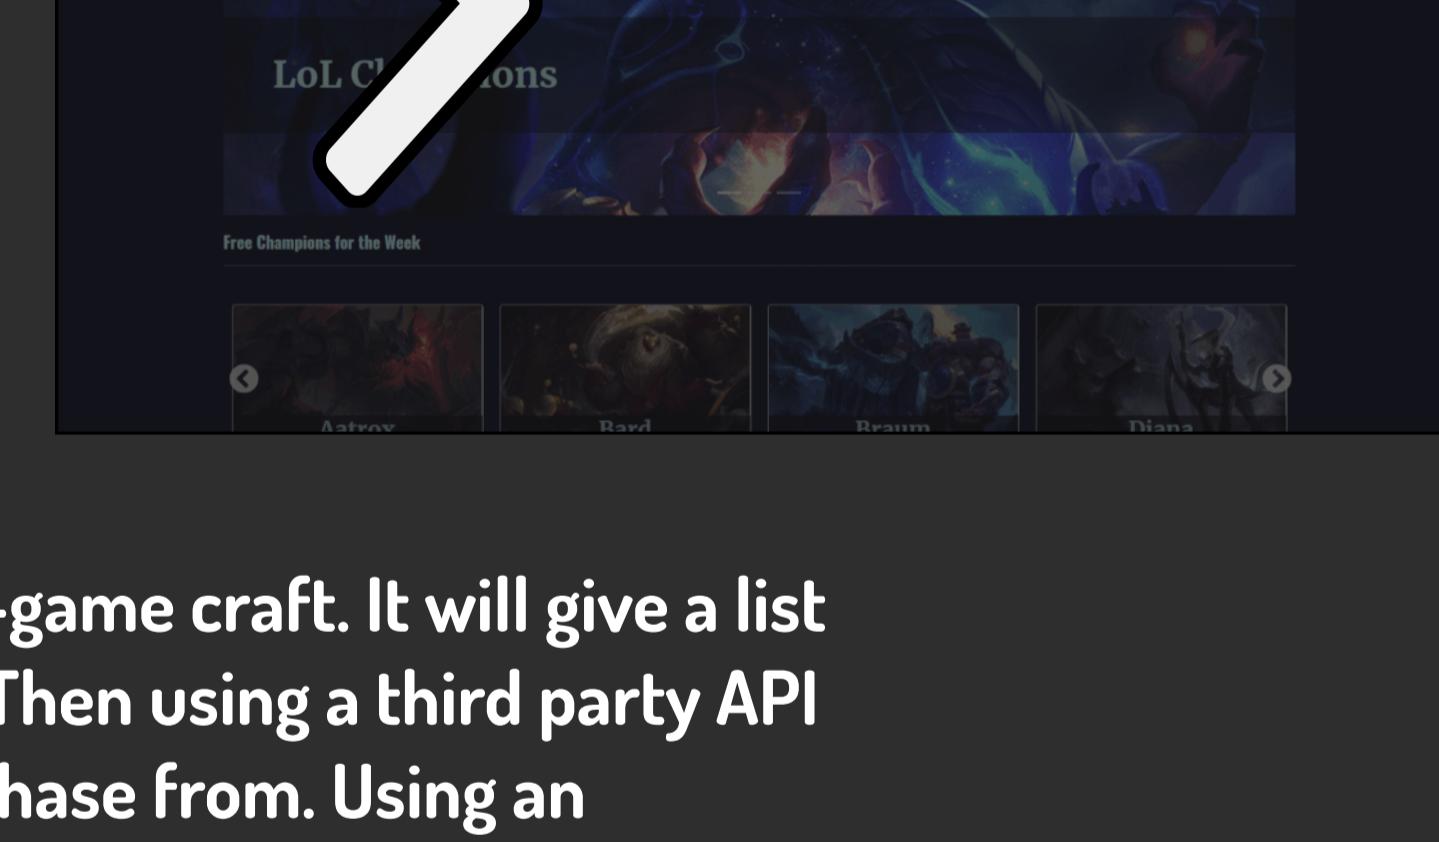

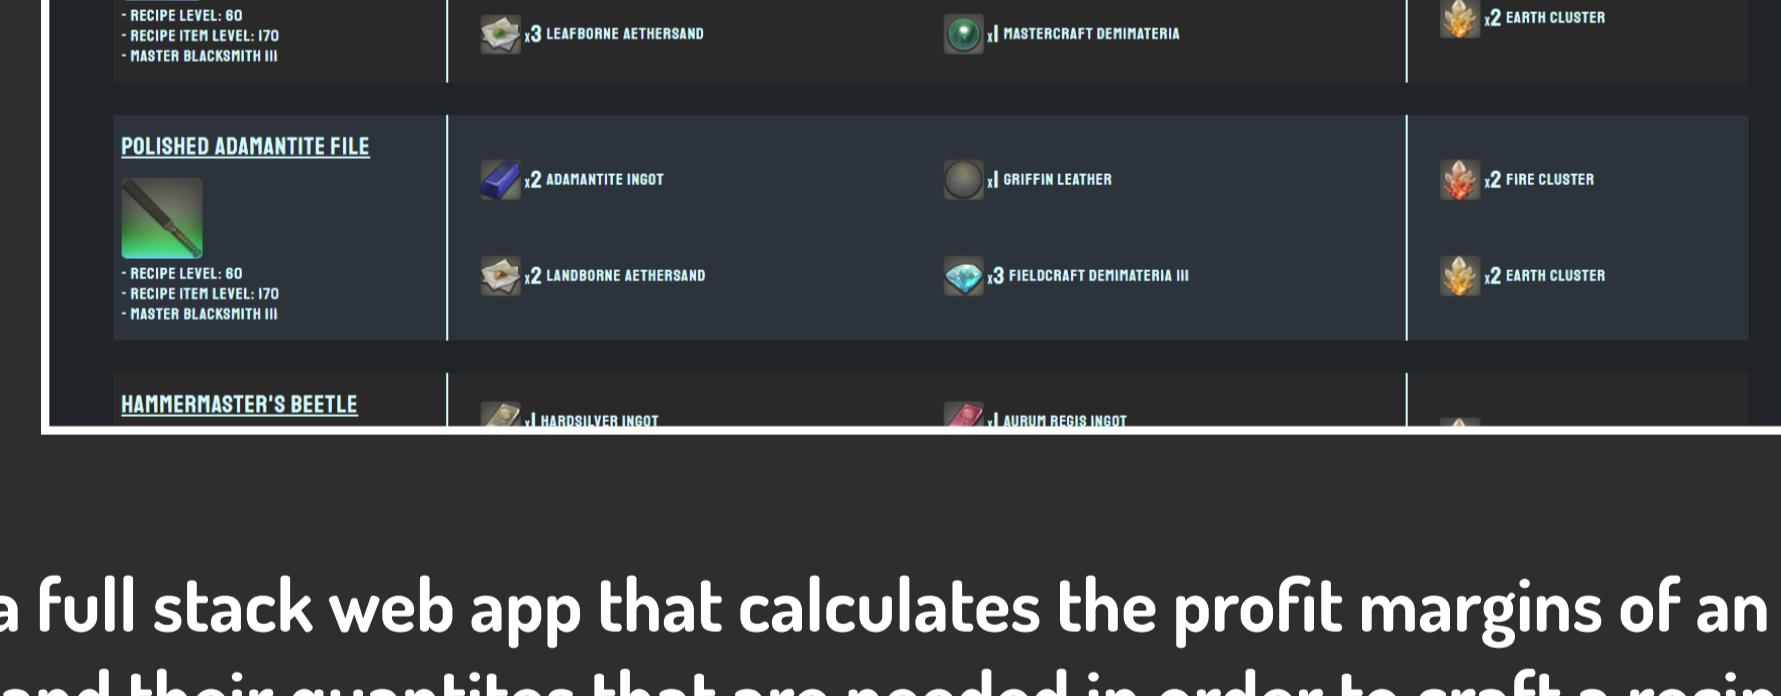

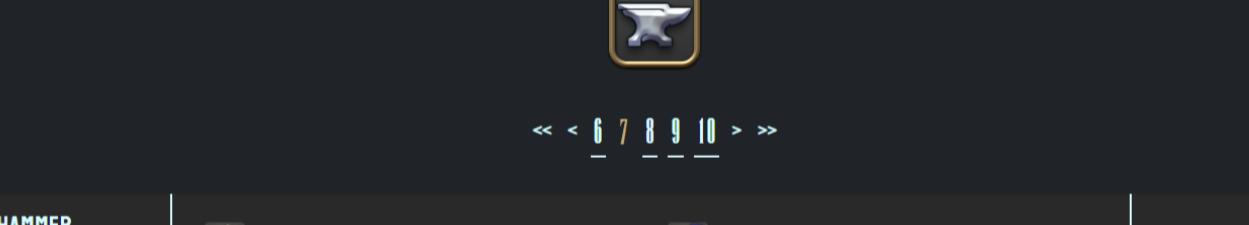

Web Developer

Page 1

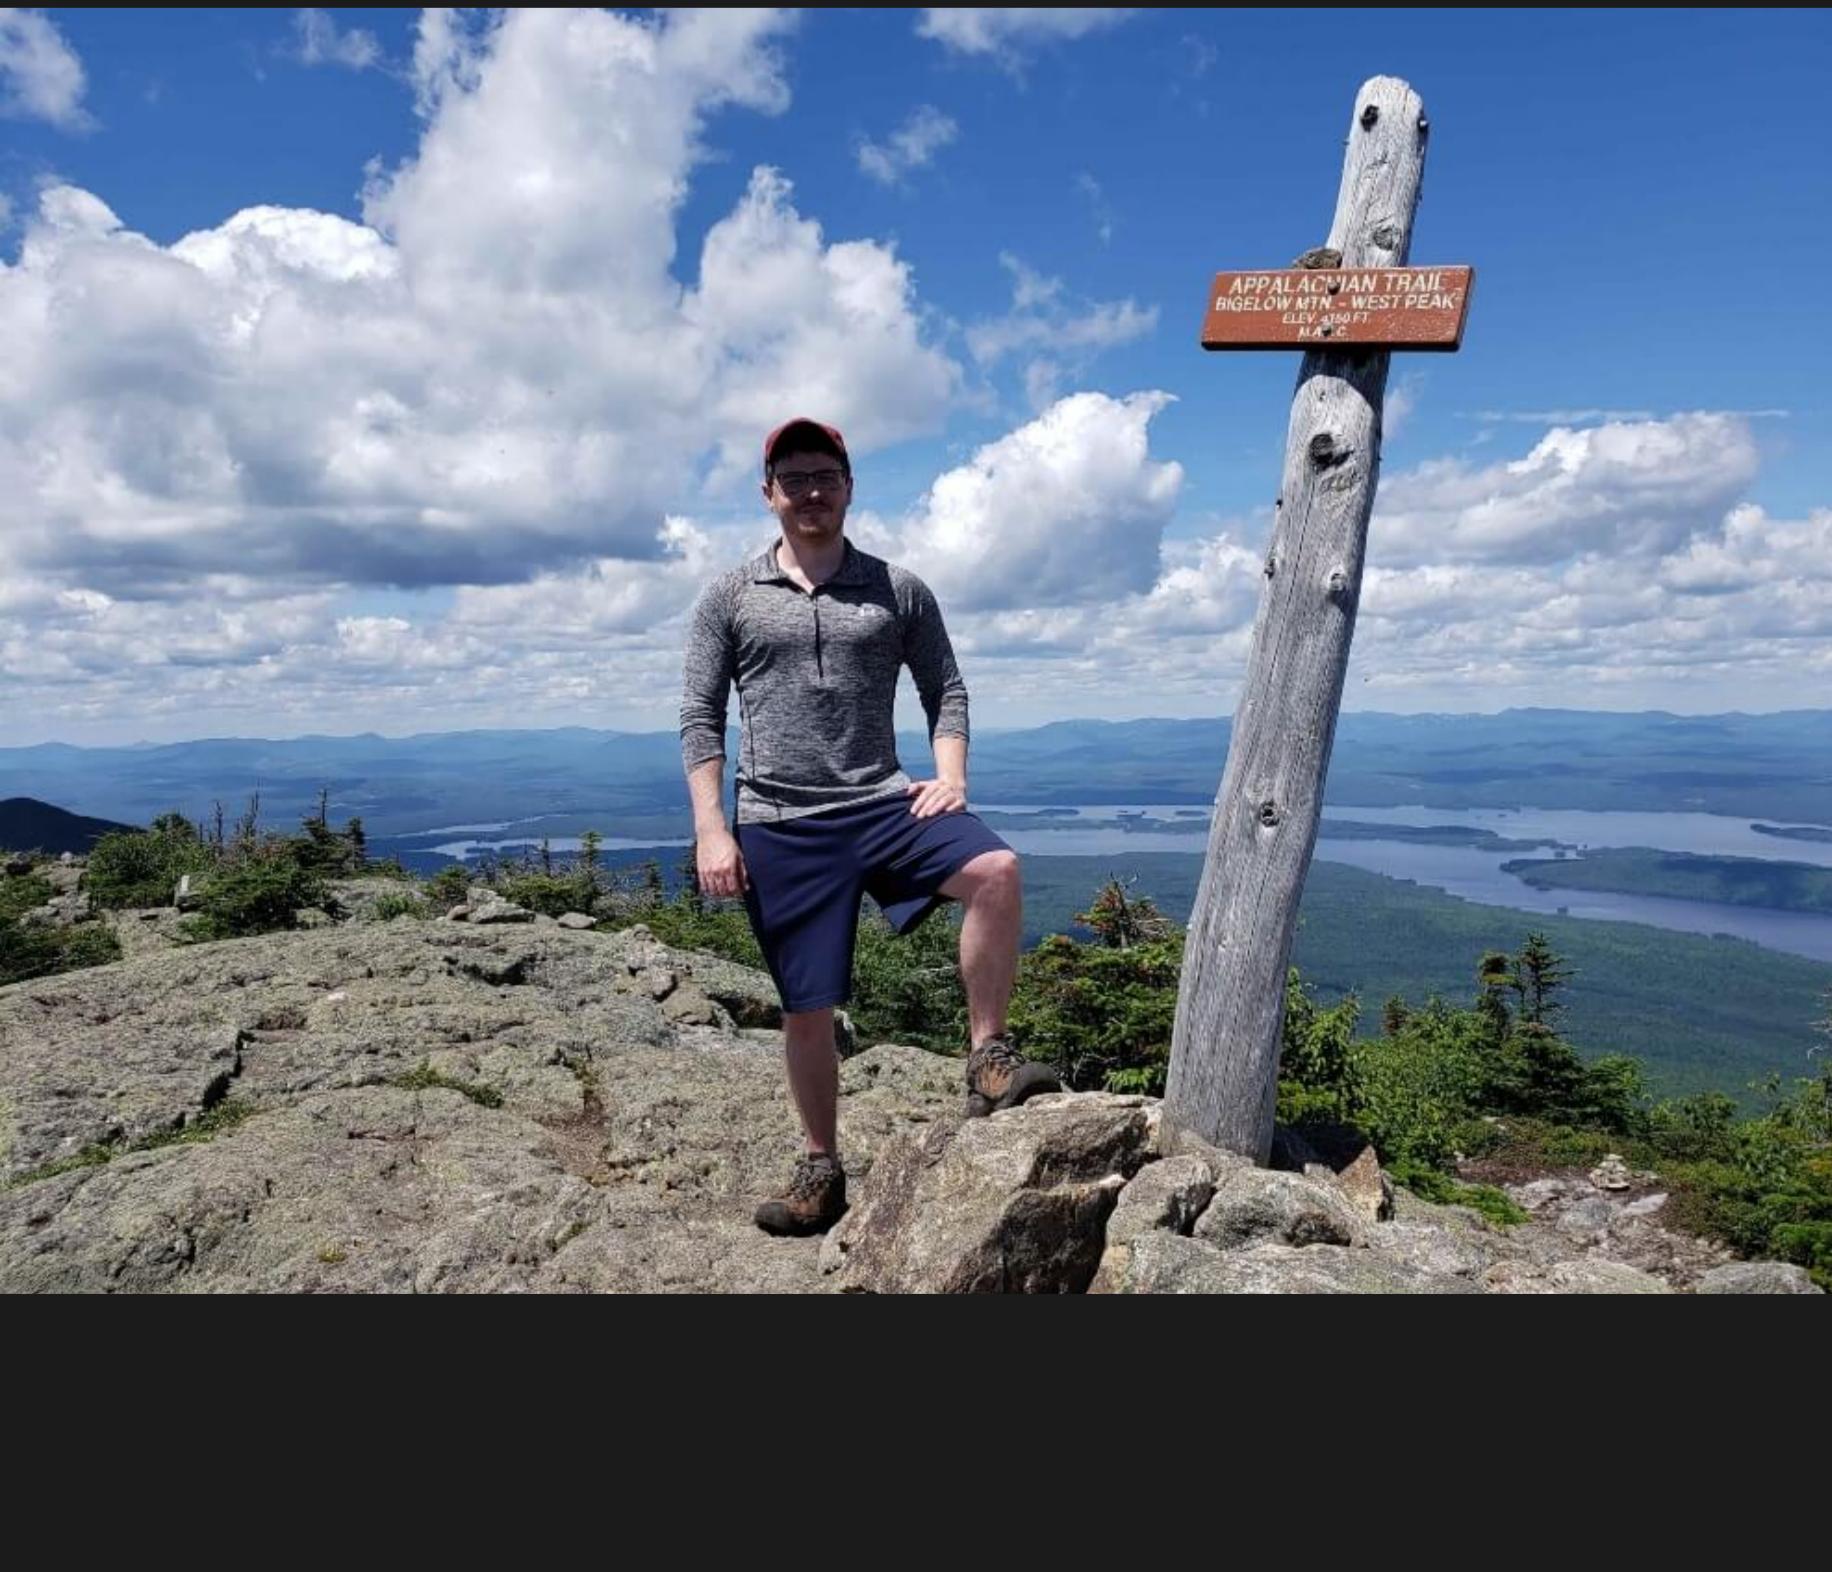

A small, stylized globe icon with horizontal and vertical grid lines, centered at the bottom right of the slide.

BLACKSMITH RECIPES

quantity. It will gather the totals of all materials and lookup what the current marketboard value is for the recipe and calculate a profit, if it exists.

My name is Ed

Computer Science.
During a web concepts course at university, I learned about web development and how the front-end and back-end technologies work together to form the modern web that we have today.
I was hooked.
Ever since, I have been researching concepts, learning new languages, and utilizing frameworks to expand my developer skills and knowledge. I find the best way to learn new material is to build something with them!
I'm excited to work with a talented team to create and maintain amazing websites. If you'd like to contact me, please fill out the contact form below or send me a message to my email listed on my resume. Thanks!